

Issues - Program List (July 10, 2016)

As required quarterly by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), this Issues and Program List will identify the programs aired over WETD 90.7 FM, State University of New York, Alfred, NY 14802 over the preceding quarter (Apr.1, 2016–Jun.30, 2016). In order to fulfill part 73.3527 of Title 47 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) regarding non-commercial, educational radio stations, WETD 90.7 FM is required by the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) to submit a Quarterly List reflecting the "licensee's most significant programming treatment of community issues". The Issues –Program List must be filed in the Public Inspection File each quarter (On January 10th, April 10th, July 10th, and October 10th.)

WETD 90.7 FM is owned by The State University of New York (SUNY). Alfred State College's (ASC) President, Dr. Irby (Skip) Sullivan, and the ASC President's Counsel currently oversee the daily operations of the radio station. WETD is funded and operated as an ASC Student Senate-funded club.

WETD continues to determine conclusively what current issues are affecting our community, and provide serious treatment for our listeners within the FCC defined guidelines for Issues and Programming Lists. The WETD Board of Directors (BOD) work towards this by conducting various campus and local community-wide surveys, and providing data samples of the most significant issues affecting our listener's lives. Our WETD leadership looks at each identified areas from these continuing surveys, and provide need-specific and timely programming for our listeners.

The main programs on the Issues & Programming list are The Best of our Knowledge, 51%, A Way With Words, America's Test Kitchen, and On The Money, Legislative Gazette, and Making Contact, a Social Issues / Political program.

1. Since 1990, The Best of Our Knowledge has highlighted breakthroughs across disciplines and across the globe, putting listeners in touch with the men and women at the forefront of their fields. Each week this program examines some of the issues unique to college campuses, looks at the latest research, and invites commentary from experts and administrators from all levels of education. The Best of Our Knowledge is produced by WAMC/Northeast Public Radio's National Productions in Albany, N.Y. Production support for The Best of Our Knowledge comes from Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, Canada.
2. 51% is a weekly half-hour of illuminating features and interviews focusing on issues of particular concern to women. Host Susan Barnett talks to experts in their field for a wide-ranging, entertaining discussion of traditional 'women's issues' and other global topics. The program is produced by WAMC/Northeast Public Radio's National Productions, 318 Central Avenue, Albany NY 12206 in cooperation with Russell Sage College, Troy, NY.
3. A Way with Words is a lively hour-long public radio show about language, on the air since 1998. Author Martha Barnette and dictionary editor Grant Barrett take calls about slang, grammar, old sayings, word origins, regional dialects, family expressions, and speaking and writing well. It is produced by Way Words, Inc, P.O. Box 632721 San Diego, CA 92163, a CA Non-profit organization. For more info, visit <http://www.waywordradio.org>.
4. America's Test Kitchen Radio applies the no-nonsense, first-hand testing approach to the wide world of food, dining, and cooking—with your voices thrown into the mix for good measure. Each episode features food and cookware recommendations and in-depth interviews. America's Test Kitchen Radio with host Chris Kimball is produced by America's Test Kitchen, 17 Station Street Brookline, MA 02445, and is one of public radio's newest weekend anchor programs, distributed by PRX.
5. On The Money with Steve Pomeranz has been educating and counseling investors to make informed money decisions since 2001. OTM is produced by United Capital Private Wealth Counseling, Boca Raton, FL, and accepts no commissions, nor do they represent any mutual fund company, money manager, brokerage firm, bank, or insurance company. They sell no product and have no interest in any investment recommended. For more info, visit <http://www.onthemoneyradio.org>.

I & P List, 7/10/16

6. Legislative Gazette: A 25-min weekly in-depth look at New York State politics and government each week on The Legislative Gazette. Hosted by David Guistina, the program features regular commentary by syndicated columnist and political scientist Dr. Alan Chartock. On each program, the award-winning WAMC News Team (Albany) combines forces to bring you a wrap-up of the week's political news, the I & P List, 7/10/16 goings on in and around the NYS legislature, and the stories that will keep you well-informed and in the know. For information, visit <http://wamc.org/programs/legislative-gazette-wamc>.
7. Making Contact: Making Contact produced by the National Radio Project, is an award winning, 29 minute weekly magazine/documentary-style public affairs program heard on more than 130 radio stations in the USA, Canada, South Africa and Ireland. Making Contact is committed to in-depth critical analysis that goes beyond the breaking news. Show casing voices and perspectives rarely heard in mainstream media, Making Contact focuses on the human realities of politics and the connections between local and global events, emphasizing positive and creative ways to solve problems. For information, visit <http://www.radioproject.org/>

Please find attached the program times aired with each program's detailed description, as well as the WETD Listener Survey identifying the most significant issues facing our listeners. This ongoing attempt not only allows WETD staff to locate and broadcast the best possible programming, but it helps establish a baseline for meeting our listener's identified needs.

Sincerely,

Dale J. Burns

2015 WETD HDD Listener Surveys – Listener-Identified Significant Issues

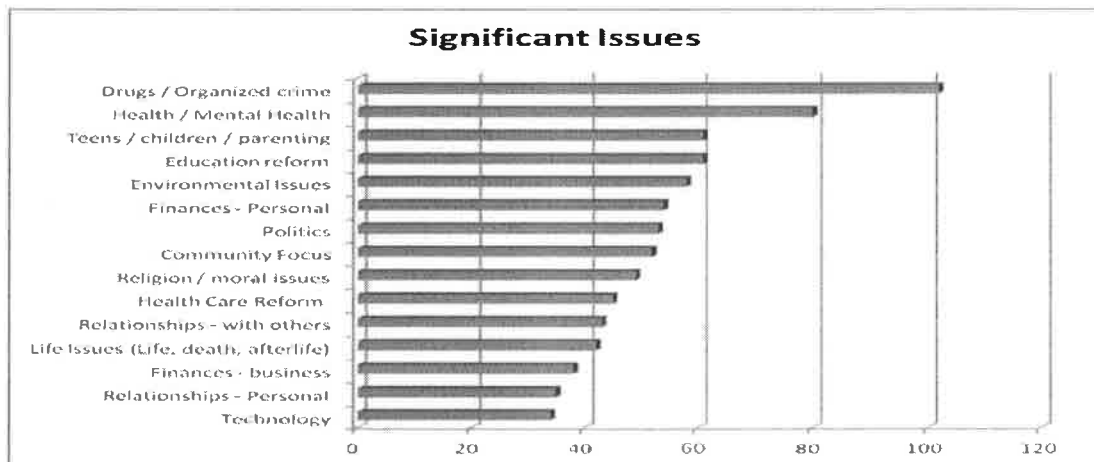

Overview: In order to identify the most significant issues facing our listeners, WETD conducts two major listener surveys each year: Hot Dog Day (Alfred, April), and Main Street Festival (Wellsville, July). Based on these results, WETD is committed to providing the best programming in meeting these most significant identified issues of our communities.

The following is the 2015 Significant Issue Chart combined from WETD-conducted listener surveys at the Hot Dog Day Festival, Alfred NY on April 25, 2015, involving respondents from across Western New York and our local area, as well as the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce's Main Street Festival July 18, 2015. Using these results, WETD staff identified that respondents were most concerned about Drugs / Organized Crime issues in our communities. Health / Mental Health was second, followed by Teens / Children / Parenting issue, Education Reform, Environmental Issues, Personal Finances, and then Politics.

In reviewing our current programming lists (included), WETD continues to be committed to providing programming that meets these needs, as well as considering the other identified needs within our community of license and our surrounding communities. Our Environmental Issue concerns are handled through The Best of Our Knowledge and Climate Connections, Earthwise, Loh Down on Science, & other daily programs. Relationships with others, Health Care Reform, and issues with children / teens / parenting are addressed with 51%, while our On The Money show encourages listener's personal & business financial education, especially for families with children & teens. A Way With Words literacy program, in addition to The Best of our Knowledge, assist listeners in understanding education reform programs. America's Test Kitchen provided nutritional encouragement for our communities Personal Health, and providing tips for families, children & teens. And the newly added Making Contact social change program addresses hard issues and questions relating to Drugs and organized crime, and health / mental health concerns.

On May 1st, 2013, WETD was honored to receive Alfred State College's Civic Engagement Award, out of 80+ Alfred State College's Student Senate recognized & very active clubs and organizations, and one of 3 semi-finalists in 2014. WETD students continually strive to meet the needs of our communities both on and off campus. This was the fifth Civic Engagement and / or Community Service Award that WETD students have received in the past 10 years.

Since 2013, the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce has offered & accepted WETD annually as an Associate member in appreciation for WETD's community service supporting local businesses & community.

4/3/2016	53:00	1443	How do languages change and grow? Does every language acquire new words in the same way? Martha and Grant focus on how that process happens in English and Spanish. Plus, the stories behind the Spanish word "gringo" and the old instruction to elementary school students to sit "Indian Style." Finally, the English equivalents of German sayings provide clever ways to think about naps, procrastination, lemons, and more. Also: catawampus, raunchy, awful vs. awesome, Man Friday, and no-see-ums.
4/9/2016	53:00	1444	This week on "A Way with Words": The language of political speech. Politicians have to repeat themselves so often that they naturally develop a repertoire of stock phrases to fall back on. But is there any special meaning to subtler locutions, such as beginning a sentence with the words "Now, look"? Also, a peculiar twist in Southern speech may leave outsiders scratching their heads: In parts of the South "I wouldn't care to" actually means "I would indeed like to." Finally, how the word "nerd" went from a dismissive term to a badge of honor.
4/17/2016	53:00	1419	This week on "A Way with Words": We often hear that English is going to hell in a handbasket. Actually, though, linguistic handwringing about sinking standards and sloppy speech has been going on for centuries--at least as far back as the 1300's! And: language also changes to fit the needs the workplace. Take, for example, the slang of flight attendants. Listen on your next trip, and you might overhear them talking about landing lips, flying dirty, or crew juice. Plus, a discreet phrase from Arabic for advising someone that he has food in his beard.
4/24/2016	53:00	1420	This week on "A Way with Words": Constructing imaginary languages and deconstructing the lingo of Hollywood. For example, would you rather live in a world with no adjectives . . . or no verbs--and why? Also, who in the world is that terrible director Alan Smithee [SMITH-ee] who made several decades' worth of crummy films? Actually, if a movie director has his work wrested away from him and doesn't like the final product, he may insist on a pseudonym, and Alan gets a lot of the blame. Plus, backpackers and medical personnel must pay close attention to "insensible losses" -- although they may not be what you think.

5/3/2016	53:00	1421	The books we love as children may influence our careers more than we realize. As a child, Martha was fascinated with stories of cracking codes, and Grant loved books with glossaries--not that far from the kind of work they do today. A caller named Nancy credits her long career in medicine to a children's book called Nurse Nancy. Also, ever traveled to England and ended up incorporating British phrases into your own vocabulary? You're feeling "the chameleon effect." And you know when you return to your car and take a moment before leaving to check your phone messages? What do you call that? Plus, a Dial-a-Joke word quiz, baffie slippers, bacon collar, the power of rhyme, and Shakespeare's First Folio goes on tour.
5/22/2016	53:00	1447	How often do you hear the words campaign and political in the same breath? Oddly enough, 19th-century grammarians railed against using campaign to mean "an electoral contest." Martha and Grant discuss why. And, lost in translation: a daughter accidentally insults her Spanish-speaking mother with the English phrase You can't teach an old dog new tricks. Finally, just how many are a couple? Does a couple always mean just two? Or does "Hand me a couple of napkins" ever really mean "Give me a few"?
5/29/2016	53:00	1448	This week on "A Way with Words: Sensuous words and terms of endearment. Think of a beautiful word. Now, is it simply the word's sound that makes it beautiful? Or does its appeal also depend on meaning? And, terms of endearment for lovers around the world: You might call your beloved "honey," or "babe," or "boo." But in Swedish, your loved one is a "sweet nose," and in Persian, you can just say you hope a mouse eats them. Finally, in certain parts of the U.S., going out to see a stripper may not mean what you think it means.
6/5/2016	53:00	1422	This week on "A Way with Words": Sharing a secret language. Did you ever speak in gibberish with a childhood pal, adding extra syllables to words so the adults couldn't understand what you were saying? Such wordplay isn't just for kids--and it's not just limited to English. Also, memory tricks to hold onto those slippery words you always forget. And, what do you call your warm, knitted cap? Is it a beanie, a tuque, a toboggan, or something else? The answer has everything to do with where you live. Plus cutting a rusty, foundering on cake, hone in vs. home in, Jeezum Crow!, and triboluminescence

6/12/2016	53:00	1449	If you're serious about writing a memoir, what topics should you include, and what can you leave out? And how honest can you really be about the other people in your life? Some of America's leading memoirists wrote things they lived to regret. And: America's never faced the real possibility of a female president -- until now. So, what would be the male version of "First Lady"? First Laddie? First Dude? Plus, take me out to the ballgame: why those rows of benches are called bleachers, and why baseball fans sit in a place called the stands. Plus, cry uncle, servicing customers, Boaty McBoatface, GPS art, lawnmower parents, and names for toilet-paper rolls.
6/19/2016	53:00	1450	In deafening workplaces, like sawmills and factories, workers develop their own elaborate sign language to discuss everything from how their weekend went to when the boss is on his way. Plus, English speakers borrowed the words lieutenant and precipice from French, and made some changes along the way, but not in ways you might suspect. Finally, how do you pronounce the name of the New York concert hall you can reach with lots of practice? Is it CAR-neg-ghee Hall ... or Car-NEG-ghee? Plus, no great shakes, Gomer, a limerick about leopards, foafiness, and sleep in the arms of Morpheus.

We'll learn how to play with our wine from wine expert Stephen Meuse and we'll speak with food writer Adam Gopnik. Then we'll head into the Test Kitchen to learn how to make the best Red Lentil Soup. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions.
4/9/2016	53:00	424	In 2010, a father-son crime duo attempted to poison the vines of La Romanée-Conti, the vineyard that produces Burgundy's finest and most expensive wines. This week we speak with Maximilian Potter, the author who chronicled this bizarre true crime story in his book "Shadows in the Vineyard: The True Story Of The Plot To Poison The World's Greatest Wine." We'll taste balsamic vinegar, and we'll taste wine with expert Stephen Meuse. Then we'll head into the test kitchen to learn the best way to roast peppers on the grill. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions. Originally aired August 13-19, 2015. Available for rerun April 7-13, 2016
4/17/2016	53:00	512	This week from the Test Kitchen, we speak to Olia Hercules. Olia is a Ukrainian-born UK-based food writer, stylist and chef. She aims to bring an appreciation of Ukrainian and Eastern European cuisine to the public. Her cookbook, Mamushka, paints a highly personal, flavorful and colorful picture of the region and its cuisine.
4/24/2016	53:00	513	This week from the Test Kitchen, we speak to Danielle Chang, the founder of LuckyRice, a festival she created to celebrate and share stories of Asian culture through the lens of food and drink. LuckyRice's motto is "After all, if we are what we eat, then we're all part-Asian." We'll discuss wine with expert Stephen Meuse and we'll speak with food writer Adam Gopnik. Then we'll head into the Test Kitchen to learn the secrets to the best Persian-Style Rice. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions.
5/22/2016	53:00	418	Is it possible to bring the big flavors of Mexico into the American home kitchen without using hard-to-find ingredients and specialty cookware? This week, Rick Bayless, chef and owner of Frontera Grill, and author of More Mexican Everyday, shows us how to make simple weeknight meals with flavors so rich, it will taste like you've been working on them for days. Gadget Guru Lisa McManus reviews grill spatulas, and we'll be tasting wine with expert Stephen Meuse. Then we'll head into the test kitchen to learn a better way to grill tuna. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions. Originally aired June 11-17, 2015. Available for rerun May 19-25, 2016.

5/29/2016	53:00	516	This week from the Test Kitchen, we investigate the legitimacy of Farm to Table. We speak to Laura Reiley, food critic for the Tampa Bay Times. Reiley spent two months working on an investigative series on "farm to table" claims at Florida restaurants and found that some claims were misleading, and some were simply bogus. We find out what this means for the movement nationally and how you can determine which claims are real. We'll taste supermarket olive oil, and we'll learn what's hot and what's not in the world of kitchen gadgets. Then we'll head into the Test Kitchen to learn the best way to make farro risotto. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions.
6/5/2016	53:00	517	This week from the Test Kitchen, we discover the world of the Haenyeos. For hundreds of years, the sea women of Jeju Island have braved the dangerous waters of the Korea Strait, even during the freezing winters. Using only flippers and goggles — with no breathing equipment — they search the sea bottom for abalone, conch and octopus to sell. We sent Jason Strothers to South Korea to speak to the Haenyeo and learn about their traditions. We'll also discuss wine with expert Stephen Meuse and we'll speak with food writer Adam Gopnik. Then we'll head into the Test Kitchen to learn how to make the best Beef Stir Fry. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions.
6/12/2016	53:00	518	This week from the Test Kitchen, we celebrate the life and work of Roald Dahl on the centenary of his birth. We speak with his wife Felicity Dahl who shares her memories of Roald, the foodie, and discusses the sense of wonder he produced with the magical candy creations he wrote about, from the Everlasting Gobstoppers to the Three-Course Dinner Chewing Gum. We'll taste sherry vinegar, and we'll find out what's hot and what's not in the world of kitchen gadgets. Then we'll head into the Test Kitchen to learn how to make the best Korean Rice Bowl. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions.
6/19/2016	53:00	415	What if the London Underground tasted like soft-boiled eggs? That's true for James Wannerton, who tells us this week about Synesthesia, a neural condition he suffers from that associates flavors with words, places, people, and even ideas. We'll find out what's hot and what's not in the world of kitchen gadgets, and we'll be tasting wine with expert Stephen Meuse. Then we'll head into the test kitchen to learn the best way to grill pork chops. And of course, we'll be taking your calls to answer all of your cooking questions.

4/3/2016	25:00	1332	More schools around the country are emphasizing STEM education to help students get a head start in a world that is rapidly becoming more technology driven. But with all that science and math...is there any room for creativity? Today on the Best of Our Knowledge, we'll talk about a group where imagination is the key to the destination. Then we'll hear about some nursing students who are helping new refugees in the US navigate the health care system...and we'll also spend an academic minute with Baby Boomers who are having a little too much fun.
4/10/2016	25:00	1333	Over the years we've heard about the importance of reading to our children from a very young age. Now, there's research to show that just talking to children from the moment of birth can help their brains develop...and the number of words is extremely important. Today on the Best of Our Knowledge, we'll learn about the 30 Million Words Initiative, and how poverty may be affecting the way some parents speak to their children.
4/17/2016	25:00	1334	It always strikes us as a little odd when someone talks about either believing or not believing in evolution. While we understand the theological arguments, and trust me we're not getting into one today, the current scientific evidence shows evolution to be a fact, not a belief system. But still, about half the population of the US says they don't believe that...and an article last year in Orion Magazine points to school systems as being the number one culprit.
4/24/2016	25:00	1335	So how should we tackle the subject of autism, as a health or medical issue or as an education issue? You could make an argument for either. April is Autism Awareness Month...and we're going to look at it as something people live with. And there are stories about all of those lives. Today on the Best Of Our Knowledge, we'll talk to the President and CEO of the Hospital for Special Care in Connecticut about their program called "Spectrum of Kindness", which hopes to tell as many of those stories as possible.
5/1/2016	25:00	1336	Back in the early 1970s, a new network called National Public Radio hired a young producer out of college who had two special interests: baseball and science. And since the network didn't plan on doing much sports coverage, he finally got on the air with that other topic. Today on the Best Of Our Knowledge, I sit down with Ira Flatow, the person who founded NPR's Science Unit and the host of the weekly public radio program Science Friday. We'll also spend an academic minute with the millions of cells in your body that don't really belong to your body...your microbiome.

4/10/2016	29:00	14-16	It's something many of us take for granted: access to clean drinking water. But for many Americans it's not something they can rely on. From chemical spills in West Virginia to ecoli in the water on the Texas-Mexico border, to contamination from farming in California. On this edition, we hear what happens when there's not a drop to drink.
4/17/2016	29:00	15-16	The vast majority of care recipients are exclusively receiving unpaid care from a family member, friend, or neighbor. The rest receive a combination of family care and paid assistance, or exclusively paid formal care. Whether you're a paid home care provider, or rely on personal assistance to meet your daily needs, or a family member caring for a loved one, the nature of the working relationship depends on mutual respect and dignity. On this edition of Making Contact, which features a segment by our Community Storytelling Fellow Alice Wong, we'll explore the dynamic and complex relationship of care receiving and giving. (Alice's story transcript below)
4/24/2016	29:00	16-16	Immigration comes up in every U.S. presidential election cycle. It's been that way pretty much since the dawning of the country. In keeping with that national tradition, immigrants throughout history have also been the target of racist rhetoric and efforts to exclude them from voting and political influence. And the 2016 elections have proven no different. This edition of Making Contact is Part I of our special series examining how immigrants are responding and participating in elections and politics today. From Dreamers in Arizona to Muslims in Michigan, we'll meet immigrant communities upholding democracy. We'll also have a conversation with the Brennan Center for Justice President and author of the Fight to Vote, Michael Waldman about how immigrants throughout history have expanded the right to vote.

5/1/2016	29:00	17-16	Hollywood has had a long history of whitewashing and stereotyping different groups –from brownface to blackface and yellowface. For Arabs and Muslims, persistent clichés throughout Hollywood’s history range from desert scenes with camels and palm trees, and characters cast as barbaric villains, belly dancers, or terrorists among others. On this edition of Making Contact we’ll meet people confronting racist depictions of Muslims and Arabs in pop culture and politics; and two young women evaluating societal expectations placed on them.
5/22/2016	29:00	20-16	We often hear from the upper middle class, educated youth of Iran complaining about the dictatorship. But what about the majority of youth, the working class young people who live in South Tehran and similar neighborhoods? Reese Erlich explores how young people compare President Rouhani’s government with the populist rule of Ahmadinejad. We’ll also hear about how they are responding to conservative hardliners who are tapping into frustrations with high unemployment, and threatening to cancel the nuclear deal. Thank you to the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting for granting Reese Erlich funding to produce this piece.
5/29/2016	29:00	21-16	The root causes of migration vary widely. Some people migrate and return to their homes depending on the season. While others migrate and never return. Often, people are forced to leave or flee their homes indefinitely because of poverty, extreme environmental events, armed conflict, social strife, political turmoil, and economic hardships. On this edition of Making Contact, we hear stories from Central American migrants that take on oppressive debts or face challenges in schools in the U.S. We also hear from Cuban migrants stuck in limbo on the route to the U.S.
6/5/2016	29:00	22-16	In 1948, Zionist militias expelled over 700,000 Palestinians from their villages and towns. The event, and the ongoing destruction and occupation of Palestine are referred to as the Nakba – the catastrophe. How did the events of 1948 shape Palestine and its diaspora? And generations later, how are Palestinians fighting to return home? On this edition of Making Contact we reflect on the Nakba, the Naksa, and the future of Palestine.

6/12/2016	29:00	23-16	Penny Rosenwasser is an activist and author of “Hope Into Practice: Jewish Women Choosing Justice Despite our Fears.” On this edition of Making Contact she reflects on her personal journey to embrace her identity as a Jewish woman while fighting for human rights for all . Listen to stories, history and poetry that explore internalized anti-Semitism and racism, victimization and privilege, and Jewish politics around Israel and Palestine.
6/19/2016	29:00	24-16	Parenting has never been easy. Merging your politics with your parenting decisions can be even more challenging. On this edition, fathers...and mothers...on fatherhood and how it’s changing. Traditional ideas about what a dad is supposed to be are slowly disappearing, but what will take their place?
